said, "we went out one at a time: and made our bargains with Brown and Sullivan."

Williams said he received $10,000 and he gave $5,000 to Jackson, a statement which tallies in the confession made by Jackson yesterday. He was supposed to get $20,000, he said.

Felsch, according to reports of his confession, said he received $5,000, which he found in his locker at the clubbouse, but that he never had a chance really to help lose the series.

His one glaring error of the series—when he dropped a fly ball—was an accident and he was warned afterwards by the other players not to be so awkward (low despression). So had a feared of the day.

The western horsemen futurity for three-year-old trotters for a purse of $6.400, was the best event and in it Arion (low despression).

When he dropped a fly ball—was an acceledent and he was warned afterwards by the other players not to be so awkward in making his misplays, he was quoted as saying. The outfielder declared he as a field of excellent colts. The other players at the hotel conference told him it would be easy. He said he had been promised $20,000 but was double crossed. Abe Attel and Gandill were the ones he believed guilty of the double crossing.

Felsch denied that the White Sox had thrown any games this season and said the men implicated in the brithery had felt all season they would be exposed soener or later. He confirmed the confessions of Cicotte and Jackson, made year terday.

John Heydler, president of the National League, and John McGraw manager of the New York Glants, today told the jury and the first heat.
